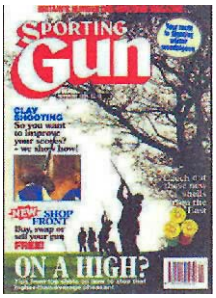
FASTEX® ACTION & BARREL TREATMENT
&
FASTEX® GUN OIL



"Independent testing has shown that velocity and accuracy can be improved when rifled arms are correctly treated with the substance. The outside of the gun acquired a dry, slightly waxy look over the exterior of the barrels and action, and it survived a wet day's pigeon shooting and a journey home in a damp slip without damage. Water seemed to run off the gun rather than cling to it, and at home it needed just a wipe down with a dry cloth".

- Friction Reduction
- Additional Velocity
- Smoother Action
- Tighter groups
- Even reduces recoil
- Xtended range

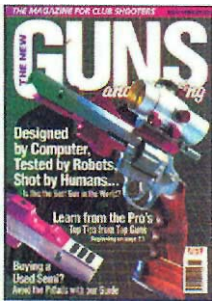
"Fastex products provide excellent protection and lubrication; the best we have tested. Used on a brand new shotgun it provided better than average protection and allowed the action to open and close more easily, thus prolonging the life of the gun. Improvements in trigger pulls and extraction were also noted".

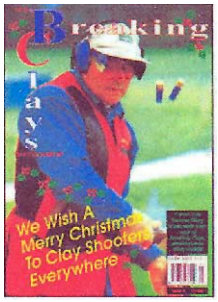


"FASTEX's cleaning properties are little short of amazing. I purposely shot my S & 0 revolver with lead bullets. A coating of FASTEX left to work for about 10 minutes caused most of the crud to fall out. I tried it on a Ruger P94 pistol and the velocity went up to 1170 fps, an increase of about 12 per cent. At the same time the felt recoil was reduced, and the consistency of groups improved.
Give it ago, I think you will be impressed".

" I set about doing the test (using FASTEX) with my battered old BRNO Mod 581 semi auto. The result?
The actual grouping was a vast improvement upon the untreated one. T here is a marked difference in velocity. My chronograph took readings averaging 9-12% on most types of weapon".

"This increase in velocity allowed me to turn the hamper spring down, back to my original 810-820 fps, which made the rifle slightly quieter without the same muzzle flip. I'm extremely pleased with the results so far".

"The overall result is that you'll shoot tighter groups so you can extend your rifle's range just that little bit further".



"I have been testing a new product to the UK called FASTEX, and believe me when I say it is good, it is no sales pitch. The results have been quite astonishing and the weapons with any form of rifling in the barrel have shown a dramatic increase in accuracy and velocity".

"I tried it on A Ruger P94 pistol and the velocity went up to 1170 fps– an increase of about 12 per cent. At the same time the felt recoil was reduced and the consistency of groups improved. Certainly from my findings, Fastex does appear to work".
